Pedro Araújo Chimelli practices in tax advisory and planning, providing advice and counsel to individuals and legal entities in domestic and international transactions across a wide range of sectors, with particular focus on services and financial institutions, the financial and capital markets, investment funds, payment methods, and e-commerce. He works closely with corporate and mergers and acquisitions teams, advising domestic and international clients on tax planning for mergers, spin-offs, and acquisitions, corporate reorganizations, foreign direct investments, debt restructurings, and international financings. Pedro Chimelli also advises individuals on tax, estate, and succession planning, as well as on compliance with their tax obligations. He also has experience in administrative and judicial tax litigation, having acted at the federal, state, and municipal levels.
