Rafael Zabaglia is a partner in the firm's dispute resolution practice. He represents major domestic and international companies before all levels of the Judiciary, particularly in disputes involving distribution and agency agreements, mergers and acquisitions and other corporate arrangements, environmental liability, enforcement of judicial and arbitral decisions, restructuring and liquidation of financially distressed businesses, government investigations, and class actions brought by private litigants or by the Public Prosecutor's Office. He also has extensive experience in transactional matters and advises clients in the context of legal due diligence and risk assessment relating to potential and ongoing disputes. Rafael worked for nearly two years in the mergers and acquisitions practice at Levy & Salomão Advogados and spent one and a half years as a visiting attorney at a New York law firm, also in the mergers and acquisitions practice.
